

A+ Science Newsletter, June 2019

"Individual commitment to a group effort - that is what makes a team work, a company work, a society work, a civilization work."

Vince Lombardi

We are very happy to announce that Mario Clementi has joined A+ Science as Drug Safety Officer to strengthen the Pharmacovigilance Department.

Mario holds a Master of Medical Science in Biomedicine from Karolinska Institute and has more than 10 years of experience from the pharmaceutical industry within the area of pharmacovigilance. Mario has worked both in affiliates and headquarters where he has been involved in many fields of PV such as Risk Management Plans, Monitoring of Emerging Safety Signals, Safety Data Exchange Agreements, Market Research projects, PV training and electronic reporting and testing to various agencies within the EEA.

“My mother always told me that when she was pregnant with me she never took any drugs, not even an Aspirin. The Thalidomide tragedy had occurred only a few years earlier. Maybe my passion for pharmacovigilance is due to this story. I’m very excited to join A+ Science. After having worked in many big pharma companies I look forward to work in a CRO which is run by its employees, where everyone can make the difference. My first impression is that I will work with very skilled and experienced colleagues in a culture of trust”, says Mario.

On behalf of everyone at A+ Science we would like to wish all our readers a wonderful and relaxing summer. We shall take a break in July and we will be back with our next issue of newsletter in August.

Do not hesitate to contact us at info@a-plusscience.com to find out about how A+ Science can help you conduct your clinical trial.

A+ Science will be attending several events. If you will be participating and wish to meet us there, please send an email to info@a-plusscience.com
