"Most of the important things in the world have been accomplished by people who have kept on trying when there seemed to be no hope at all."

A+ Science, a CRO run by its employees

Our vision is to become the CRO best known for its unique and dedicated personnel with focus on customer satisfaction. To Earn Trust- Make Difference

Did you know that A+ Science can empower your clinical team by outsourcing consultants within different fields?

The outsourcing business idea was introduced in 2004, the aim of which was to help companies succeed with the performance of their clinical trials.

A+ Science is flexible and can assist by providing you with short or long term solutions, depending on the inquiry and the customer needs. You can choose consultants within clinical trial management, Pharmacovigilance, research nurses and others. Although our outsourced consultants are stationed at clients' office, they are still part of the A+ Science Team. They attend our monthly office meetings and participate in our frequent GCP trainings and other discussions we have concerning clinical trials.

One of our outsourced consultants is Ann-Christine Ljungqvist, known as Anki. We asked Anki how she feels about being an outsourced consultant.

Here is what Anki says, "I have several years of experience within the pharmaceutical industry. I have been working at A+ Science for the last 6 years. The majority of my outsourcing assignments have been long term missions. Of course this has given me the chance to learn more about each company I have been outsourced at, as well as the opportunity to work with several different tasks and teams. It has been exciting years with lots of new challenges and experiences. It is a good feeling knowing your services are needed and appreciated. We all have our own ways of seeing things, but as an outsourced consultant, there have been times when viewing a problem or a situation from different perspectives has helped resolve issues that we thought would never be solved. I have also had the chance to get a broad network of many pleasant and professional people I have met throughout my outsourcing assignments; some of those people have in fact become very close friends.

Our monthly office meetings at A+ Science keep me updated with everything that is happening within our company and gives me the chance to meet my A+ Science colleagues on regular basis".

A+ Science will be attending the below events, if you will be participating and wish to meet us there, please send an email to info@aplus-science.com
