

"Coming together is a beginning. Keeping together is progress. Working together is success."

Henry Ford

A+ Science, a CRO run by its employees

Few months ago we were asked whether A+ Science could be run by us, the employees of the company. At first we experienced some mixed emotions and reactions but after several weeks of enthusiastic discussions we decided to go ahead and accept this outstanding offer.

It was a much too exciting and challenging deal to disregard. We all came to the same conclusion, who would not wish to collaborate with a unique CRO and its hard working and committed consultants? We all share the same responsibilities, values and goals and are of course very much aware of the hard work required to run the company, but that is part of the challenge. We also aim to become an employee-owned CRO year 2015.

Our customers have shown their positive and confirming reactions to our new business concept and many are fascinated by the way we work today. They also know that in order to succeed, we have to continue on providing them with excellent services. This makes us a unique CRO.

Our vision is to become the CRO best known for its unique and dedicated personnel with focus on customer satisfaction. To Earn Trust- Make Difference

Meet the proud consultants of A+ Science

